NEWARK POST OFFICE LOOTED AGAIN EARLY TUESDAY MORNING

S. P. Station Safe Also Forced Open; Yeggs Make Haul

Robberies in Washington township swelled into more formidable proportions early Tuesday morning when burglars smashed into the Newark post office and the Southern Pacific depot. It is said that the thieves took approximately $1000, in stamps and cash. They also took money order blanks.

Mrs. M. E. Boles, postmaster, discovered the robbery Tuesday morning when she opened the office. She immediately noticed the open safe. Apparently the yeggs had employed the bars and sledges found on the floor to force the safe open. The lock and hinges were smashed and bent. According to Mrs. Boles, the safe had contained several hundred dollars worth of stamps and cash. Money order blanks were also kept in the safe.

The depot safe was smashed open in the same way as that of the post office by use of crowbars which had been taken from a nearby railroad tool house. Railroad company officials said that about $15 was in the safe at the time of the theft.

Deputy Sheriff Hugo Radbruch and Constable O. W. Ebright went immediately to the scene. They discovered several fingerprints that may lead to the apprehension of the thieves.

The Newark post office was robbed just about a year ago. in the same manner as this time. The theives were caught in Denver a short time later when they tried to cash a money order they had forged on one of the blanks stolen from the post office safe. It is the opinion of local authorities that the robberies are being perpertrated by an organized gang.

OAKLAND BOY SLAIN BY MOVING TRAIN AT ALVARADO

Out of his mother's sight for a short time while she waited for her husband to conclude business in the office of the Holly sugar plant at Alvarado, little William Norman Long, aged 7, of Piedmont was killed Tuesday afternoon by a moving beet car when he crawled beneath it.

Norman Long, father of the child, of 173' Wildwood Avenue, Piedmont, accompanied by his wife and son, had driven out from Oakland on business to the sugar plant. While he was in the office, the boy climbed out of the car and started to play about near the tracks. He clambered beneath a stationary car, just ater the engine had hooked on to it. He was instantly killed. Members of the train crew said that they had no idea that a child was playing in the vicinity. The ambulance of the Chapel of Palms, Centerville, was ifmediately called to the scene.

MORRISON CANYON CRASH

Assertedly startled by a large buck that sprang out in front of his machine in Morrison canyon early Sunday morning, Ira Bonner lost control of the car and plunged over the embankment.

Bonner, miraculously unhurt save for a few superficial bruises and cuts, had his car dragged out the next morning. It was completely demolished.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Butterfield were Oakland visitors Monday.

CHRISTOPHER GARCIA OF DECOTO, AGED 68, SUMMONED MONDAY

Native of Old Spain Dies After Protracted Illness

Christopher Garcia, 68, passed away at his home at 807 14th street, Decoto, Monday morning, after an illness of long duration.

He had been a resident of Washington township for 20 years, during which time he was active in the Decoto Spanish society.

Born in Spain in 1865, Garcia came to this country as a young man. He was married here, and raised his family at Decoto.

He is survived by a son, John Garcia. He was the husband of the late Isabel Garcia.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at the Lady of the Rosary church at Decoto, the Rev. Father McCaul officiating. Interment was in the Holy Ghost Cemetery. Funeral direction was by the Chapel of the Palms, Centerville.

Plumbers' Association Meets Again Tonight

The Merchants Master Plumbers association, a local branch of the National organization. met at the home of Ray Peterson, at Niles, Monday night to make alterations in the by-laws and constitution. During the evening plans were discussed to further the good work demanded by the association in the installation of reliable and sanitary plumbing fixtures. Peterson stated that good work is instrumental in benefiting public health.

The main committee of the local association is made up of the following: V. M. Cramer, Irvington, chairman; Joe Bettencourt Centerville, and Ernest Frick, of Newark. Another meeting is to be held in Centerville tonight.

ANN ROSS, INDIAN PRINCESS, VISITS NILES THIS WEEK

Actress On Lecture Tour For Americanization of Indians

Princess Ann Ross, fullblood Cherokee Indian girl, on a tour of the United States for the Americanization of the Indians, stopped in Niles with her manaer, John F. Goldner Tuesday, to delegate Frank Ferry, Niles boy scout, and Jack Fitzpatrick, scoutmaster of troop No. 72, of Oakland, as her international advance agents. Ferry and Fitzpatrick plan to leave September 21 for New York, when they will sail for Europe. On their tour across the continent they will interview the press in the major cities included in the princess' itinerary. When in Europe they will make preliminary arangements for her appearance there.

Princess Ross, movie actress and aeroplane pilot, is the first American to sponsor with the American Legion for Americanization. She is touring under the auspices of the American Legion and the National department of the Independent Order of Veterans, Inc. She is giving a series of lectures in behalf of the disabled war veterans.

In 1934 she plans to pilot her own plane across the Atlantic to Europe, where she will continue her work. She will be the first real-American to make the flight.

Princess Ross, was born in Salisaw, Oklahoma, a town in the Cherokee Nations. She is a graduate of Bacone College, the Creek Indian school at Muskogee. In Hollywood she is know as Ann Ross, the only "Real American Star" on the screen. Her Indian name is Ah-na-wake. She has played in a number of pictures in the role of co-ed. Her first part in the costume of her ancestors was the lead of the Indian cast in the "First California Pageant" at Ontario, California. Two Indian leads in Western pictures followed: "Oklahoma Jim" and "Texas Pioneers." Her latest part is with Wheeler and Woolsey in "Diplomaniacs."

Princess Ross liked Niles and the situation "under the hills." She stated that the whole bay region, "was quiet and serious looking."

While in Niles she and her manager stayed with Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Ferry, old friends of Goldner's.

Ferry and Fritzpatrick, eagle scouts, received honorary life memberships in the Independent Order of Veterans, and will be presented with international passports by Frank C. Jordan, secretary of the state of California, previous to their departure.

OUTSTANDING PROGRAM SLATED FOR MEN'S CLUB MEETING SEPTEMBER 26

Ingram, Morse, Thornhill, Templeton to Speak On Football

Previous rumors that the Men's Club was to stage a fall meeting of particular interest to football enthusiasts, are tame and pallid beside the reality of the program released early this week. Although not purposely designed as a bait for members, it is said that many delinquent dues are expected to race in before the night of September 26.

As a football night, the entertainment committee of the club challenges any organization, or covey of organizations, to beat this: The University of California team will consist of: "Navy" Bill Ingram, head coach; Stub Allison, assistant coach; Bill Monohan, graduate manager, and Brick Morse, Famous Californian.

The Stanford team is slated as: Tiny Thornhill, head coach; Al Masters, graduate manager; Ernie Nevers, assistant coach and Dink Templeton, famous track coach.

Ernie Smith, popular radio announcer will referee the verbal scrimmage between the above mentioned football lights.

Each coach will give a brief outline of the season as it appears to him at the present time. Templeton and Morse, both football writers and critics for the press will, in their own inimitable patterns, toot the horns of their respective alma maters.

In addition to the program, the members may expect a dinner that is said to be in preparation at the present time. There will be a musical program and entertainment as well.

The meeting is to be held at the Congregational Church, Niles, a week from next Tuesday evening, September 26, at 7 p. m.

George Roderick, secretary of the Men's Club, hints that dues are now payable.

GETS FINE BUCK

Ed. and Bill Brunelli came home Sunday night with their second deer for the season. It was a fine forked horn, dressing at ninety-eight pounds. They shot it in the Livermore hills.

SPECTACULAR CRASH HURTS L. A. LADY SATURDAY

A spectacular crash on the highway near the Masonic Home, Decoto, at about 7:00 o'clock Saturday night, demolished two automobiles, and slightly injured the driver and passenger of one of them. Mrs. Jessie Nealy, of Los Angeles, and her small son were the injured.

Turning out into the center lane of the highway to pass a slow moving car in front of her, Mrs. Nealy collided head-on with a machine driven by a Hayward man turning out simultaneously from the opposite line of traffic. Mrs. Nealy's machine, a large sedan, was overturned. Two wheels of the other car were torn off.

Mrs. Nealy, who was taking her two children, James and Robert, to visit their aunt in Oakland, said that it was impossible for her to see the approaching car because of another machine directly in front of her. She Received several cuts and bruises and her son, James, received a sprained back.

Occupants of the other machine, numbering six, were unhurt. Their names were not learned.

OREGON HUNT

Jim Rose and Norman Rose arrived home in Niles Friday after a two weeks' trek in the wilds of Oregon, where they had gone in quest of mule-tailed deer. They returned empty handed, with the information that said deer were scarce. The fishing, however, they report as excellent.

ALAMEDA COUNTY DISPLAYS WIN AT FAIR

Alameda county did exceptionally well in capturing a large number of first prizes with flower and vegetable entries at the 1933 California State Fair which closed on Admission Day.

First prizes were won for entries of gladioli, carnations, roses, dahlias, zinnias, chrysanthemums, cacti, succulents, rock garden plants, and everlasting flowers. The display also won first sweepstakes money and a purple ribbon. On Governor's Day, September 7, Alameda county won the coveted governor's cup for the best display of sweetpeas.

In the vegetable class the county captured first prize money for tomatoes, cabbage, cauliflower, celery, bell peppers, spinach and first prize for refined and crude salt in the mineral class.

The vegetable growers who contributed to the success of the display were Cunha Brothers, Hayward; H. P. Garin Company, Centerville; Varni Brothers, Alvarado.

The Edenvale Nursery, Niles; Mrs. George Roeding, Jr., Niles; and Mrs. Oscar Star, of Mission San Jose, entered prize-winning flowers as did Mrs. B. E. Amyx, of Niles.

The county received much favorable advertising by distributing baskets of flowers each day to winners at the horse races and horse show. A special boquet of sweetpeas was presented to Mrs. Herbert Hoover on Governor's Day. Supervisors Jannsen and Caldecot attended the fair on Friday, September 8, state supervisors' day, and commented favorably on the county exhibit.

Arranged by the Alameda County Development Commission the display was in charge of N. W. Armstrong, assisted by Edwin Stearns, B. E. Amyx and Major Walter Carman.

IRVINGTON RACER PLACES THIRD AT SAN JOSE

Throwing a wheel at around eighty miles an hour during the time trials at the San Jose speedway Sunday, didn't seem to bother Herk Edwards, driving the car of Roy Canright, Irvington racing car builder. Edwards, losing the wheel on the west turn as he was coming into the home stretch, saved himself from crashing by use of all his skill. He skidded three hundred feet.

Equipped with a new wheel and with the car checked over for injury from strain, Edwards proceeded to cop third place in the ten-lap race. He had previously qualified as third best car in the time trials. Canright's car is considered as one of the fastest on the western dirt tracts.

EX-MARINE MURDERS TWO KINSMEN NEAR NEWARK LAST WEEK

J. Faria and Son Die In Hospital After Shocking Double Shooting

An extensive search in the bay region for Manuel Arruda, alleged killer of Joseph Faria, Sr., and Joseph Faria, Jr., his step-father and step-brother, in a shooting near Newark last Wednesday night, has failed to locate the accused man authorities state this week. According to stories told to police who investigated the crime, Arruda fled from the scene in the automobile belonging to his step-father. The machine was found abandoned in San Leandro at noon Thursday, but a thorough search of that city was fruitless. Accompanying Arruda is his brother, Frank, sixteen. Authorities are uncertain as to the latter's connection with the killings, it being thought that the youth was terrorized into fleeing with the alleged murderer.

The slaying occurred Wednesday evening, after Arruda, former marine and absent for several years, had returned to the Faria ranch, near Brown's corners on the Jarvis road, and learned that his mother, the elder Faria's wife, had been dead for several months. Apparently Arruda believed that Faria was in some way responsible for his mother's death.

Asking his step-father, the elder Faria, for his car, Arruda took his younger brother, Frank, and Joseph, Faria, Jr., for a ride. They drove to the home of Manuel Andrade, who later asserted to police that Arruda had shown a pistol there and made the statement that he was going to kill Faria, Sr.

On the drive back to the Faria ranch, Arruda, from the back seat, shot young Faria twice in the back. Arruda's brother, Frank, was driving the car. The paralyzed body of Faria was taken from the car by the two, and laid under a tree beside the road, where authorities found it. Before lapsing into a coma, the younger Faria was able to tell police of what had occurred.

After disposing of his victim, Arruda drove to the Faria ranch, walked into the house and shot the elder Faria in the back.

NEW OFFICERS FOR FIREMEN'S CLUB INSTALLED

New officers of the Niles Firemen's Club, made up of members of the fire department, were installed Friday, after being elected on the first of September. They are: President, Clarence Crane; secretary, Arnold Bellini and treasurer, Lawrence Avila. The latter has been serving since Tony Mezza, former treasurer, moved to Pleasanton. Avila will continue in the office for the full term.

Heads of the committees for entertainment and sick relief are yet to be appointed, according to Crane. Each committee chairman, after his appointment, selects his own committeemen.

ROSE IS DENIED PROBATION; JAILED

The plea for probation by Clarence Rose, Niles would-be extortionist, was denied yesterday in Oakland. Rose was sentenced to a term of one to five years in San Quentin prison, according to word received last night from R. Tyson, probation officer.

Rose was found guilty last month of attempting to extort a sum of money from Frank Duarte, Niles contractor, on the threat that Duarte's 12-year-old son, Francis, would come to harm if the demand was denied. Rose was caught when he seized a dummy package placed in the stipulated spot by police. Preliminary hearing was before Judge Allen G. Noris, at Centerville.

AMERICAN LEGION TO DEDICATE RIFLE SQUAD GUNS SEPTEMBER 27TH

Benefit Dance Saturday Night for Group's Uniforms

Filling a need felt since the Memorial Day ceremonies, when it was necessary to engage the firing squad of the Hayward national guard to complete the day's program, the Washington Township Post of the American Legion has planned and formed a rifle squad, to be at the service of Washington township organizations for celebrations, memorial and dedication ceremonies.

The squad proper will be made up of eight men, in addition to which will be the color guards of both the legion and auxiliary posts, making a total of twelve. Guns for the squad have been donated by interested citizens and organizations of the township.

Following up the donations of the guns the post feels that supplementary equipment is necessary, and for the purpose of raising funds, will give a benefit dance at the Memorial Hall, Niles, Saturday night, September 16. Uniforms for the rifle squad will be purchased with the proceeds from the dance. Music for the dance will be furnished by one of the best orchestras in the east bay, namely, by Neal's versatile band. Always intent on making its social affairs the best possible, the post has spared no pains in arranging for a brilliant evening.

Dedication of the guns for the squad will be held at the Niles American Legion Post building on the evening of September 27. According to Commander Nordby, all Washington township organizations are to attend. The ceremonies will be for the purpose of giving over the guns into the hands of those who will comprise the squad. On the same evening the donors of the guns will be honored each with a plaque expressing the thanks of the post, and bearing the official seal of the American Legion.

Following the dedication ceremonies there will be an entertainment, featuring a variety of novel acts.

Citizens of Washington township have expressed their pride in having an active American Legion post as one of the organizations working toward the progress of the region, and whole hearted support is being awarded the post in all of its activities.

SACRAMENTO TRIP

Miss Eloise Silva, of Niles, and Mrs. Estella Kelly, of Decoto, returned Saturday evening from a short stay at Sacremento, where they saw the state fair. They reported that Alameda county had a splendid display. They also visited Miss Aldina Perry, formerly of Niles, now employed at the State Capitol.

Spring Heralds Coming Circus

Much Actual Geography Seen in Sawdust Ring.

Prepared by National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.—WNU Service.

THE circus, land of sawdust and spangles, pink lemonade and peanuts, is about to emerge from winter quarters. The magic rumble of red wagons and the footsteps of circusdom's spangled battalions have echoed down the corridors of many summers; yet few really know the phantom white city, a nomadic world, a geographic marvel and a mystery from beginning to end.

There is more actual geography within the narrow borders of Spangleland than in any similar space on the face of the earth. From the shores of the seven seas come its citizens, their faces turned toward the open road where lies the winding trail of the big tops. Dainty equestriennes from France and handsome Russians from the steppes; pink-cheeked athletes from Britain and Scandinavia; flashing brunettes from Italy, Argentina, Mexico and sunny Spain; blond Germans with iron bodies; suave, charming Austrians; almond-eyed maids from Yokohama, Tokyo, and Nagasaki and from the seething land of the dragon; sun-tanned sheiks from the shifting sands of Araby; whip-crackers from Australia and hard-riding cowboys from the western plains; clowns, acrobats, aerialists, riders, staff executives and laborers from every state in the Union all owe allegiance to the transient country of tents.

A game of checkers in the circus "backyard" between a genial young Japanese tumbler, heir to half a million dollars, and an old clown who ran away from his home in the Middle West long ago, lured by the spangled Pied Piper and his steel-throated calliope, shows how the big top draws together the ends of the earth. Such is the population of Spangleland, where people from nearly every country under the sun are fed into the hopper of a highly organized machine to emerge firmly woven into the brilliant mosaics of a fast-moving performance, subscribing without reservation to the supreme law of the trouper—"The show must go on."

Gets Start in Circus.

Circusdom has been a springboard form which men have vaulted to prominence in other fields. Will Rogers was the "Cherokee Kid" with Wirth's circus in 1904. Al G. Fields, the minstrel king, started trouping as a Shakespearean clown. Fred Stone wore spangles before the footlights claimed him, and some of his best antics were born back in "Clown Alley" during his circus days.

Many persons still look upon circus trouping as something akin to robbing a bank, which accounts for the interesting fact that many present-day circus stars had to run away from home to join. Take Mabel Stark, for example. Her relatives virtually disowned her when she laid aside the crisp, white uniform of a trained nurse to expose herself to the mauling of "big, striped tomcats," as she affectionately refers to her tigers. But the call of the calliope and the magic of the midway were in her ears and she immigrated to Spangleland, there to become the only woman in the world who breaks, trains, and works tigers.

The almost unlimited geographical aspects of the circus are nowhere more in evidence than in the wild-animal menagerie. To the traveling college of zoology belong animals from every continent, each a splendid physical specimen, receiving the utmost care from the animal attendants. Zoological experts from leading universities never cease to marvel at the exceptionally fine condition of the circus animals, despite the fact that they are moved from city to city almost every day. Variation in climate in different sections of the country presents a serious problem for circus animal attendants, who often pass hours in a cage with a sick jungle charge, so fond are they of their animals. Seldom does a beast die while the circus is on the road.

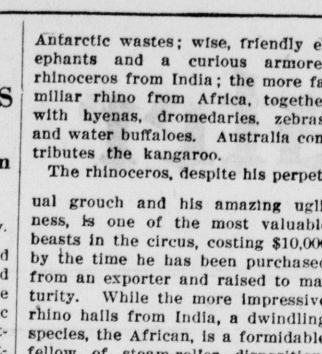
Under a single spread of canvas are gathered hundreds of animals and birds—tigers from Bengal, Sumatra, and Siberia; lions and leopards from Africa's tangled jungles; tall, silent giraffes from the open stretches of Ethiopia; nilgai, black buck, aoudad, tapir, and Gemsbok antelope. In the same circus colony are Russian brown bears, huge black fellows from Alaska, and polar bears from Greenland's icy slopes. But the circus animal population does not end here. There are hippopotamuses from north of the Transvaal; orangutans from Borneo; tiny rhesus monkeys with pathetic faces, affectionate dispositions and delicate lungs; llamas from the mountains of Peru; pumas from North and South America; macaws from Mexico; sea lions from California; a sea elephant from the Antarctic wastes; wise, friendly elephants and a curious armored rhinoceros from India; the more familiar rhino from Africa, together with hyenas, dromedaries, zebras, and water buffaloes. Australia contributes the kangaroo.

The rhinoceros, despite his perpetual grouch and his amazing ugliness, is one of the most valuable beasts in the circus, costing $10,000 by the time he has been purchased from an exporter and raised to maturity. While the more impressive rhino hails from India, a dwindling species, the African, is a formidable fellow of steam-roller disposition. Rhinoceros, elephant, or water buffalo can whip a tiger or at least discourage him in most instances. In contrast to the evil-tempered pachyderm, with the deadly horn and the tiny, piglike eyes, is the good-natured hippopotamus, as genial as he is fat.

Elephants From India.

Circus elephants, almost without exception, come from India. Their African cousins, though larger, are much harder to handle and have proved pretty generally useless in circuses except for display purposes. Jumbo was an African and he was stubborn, like the rest of his four-footed countrymen. One night many years ago, in St. Thomas, Ont., Jumbo got into an argument with a freight train on the wrong track, with the result that his funeral was held the following morning.

Indian elephants are natural actors and enjoy doing tricks in the big show. They are quick to learn, once they realize what is expected of them, and their ears are tuned to applause like those of a born trouper. Most of them are surprisingly good-natured, and they are so anxious about a firm footing that in most cases they will not voluntarily step on a man. Giraffes are captured by means of a lasso, and often an African-born giraffe will be seen to have about two inches of hair missing from his stubby mane



Trained Circus Elephant.

—evidence that the lasso was instrumental in his capture.

The big circus cats, unless born on the show, are captured in the jungle regions with traps and pits covered with young goats. A new method of capturing wild beasts alive involves shooting them with a gas bullet that puts the animal to sleep without pain. When the creature wakes up he finds himself a prisoner. These recently perfected gas bullets are said to be capable of bringing down a lion or a tiger at a distance of 200 feet. But circus animals from the four corners of the earth are imported for a far more interesting purpose than mere exhibition. Many of them are educated. In the circus "classroom" the natural enemies of the jungles are taught to tolerate one another.

Mystery of Circusdom.

Much of the mystery of circusdom lies in the moving of this miniature cosmos, with its citizenry of animals and people from every clime, and in the pitching of the tents that compose the canvas city. The largest circus carries its own doctor, lawyers, detectives, barber shop, blacksmith shop, fire department, chefs, business experts, and postal service, and it travels on 100 railroad cars in four sections. There are long, steel flat cars for the wagons and other vehicles; huge box cars for the hundreds of horses, elephants, camels, llamas, zebras; commodious sleeping cars for the performers, staff, and laborers.

That the moving of the show may be expedited, cook and dining equipment is packed up at 5:30 in the afternoon, and is sent ahead aboard the flying squadron, along with the wild animal cages and the menagerie tent, which is loaded immediately after the start of the night performance. The land of the white top remains static for just about six hours—between the time the last wagon moves upon the lot, in the late morning, until loading begins again, in the late afternoon. But, if there is a late arrival, the time between unloading and packing up again is shorter still. Of course, when the circus arrives on Sunday or when it remains in a city for more than one day, as it does in a few very large cities, this schedule is not followed. The longest run made by a circus in 1931 was the Ringling-Barnum jump from Springfield, Mass., to Montreal, Canada, a Sunday trip of 335 miles. The shortest run was 12 miles, from Philadelphia to West Philadelphia.

Circus exhibition in the United States had its beginning in 1785 and President Washington attended Rickett's circus in Philadelphia in 1793. The circus of those early days was a puny ancestor of the present-day show. Indeed, it had no elephant! The first pachyderm to set foot in the United States arrived several years later, aboard a sailing vessel called America.

Spangleland scarcely could lay claim to being a complete world in miniature were it not for the fact that within its boundaries can be seen the freak as well as the normal handiwork of Nature. The side show is a separate and distinct kingdom.

Foods in Use for Ages

All of the cultivated food plants and domesticated animals used by modern man have been in usage since the dawn of civilization 12,000 years ago, a director of the New York Botanical gardens, asserted. "Modern man has vastly improved the plants and animals inherited from his very remote ancestors," he said, "but within the historic period has not domesticated a single plant or animal important from the standpoint of food supply."

Old Postal Cancellations

The United States had no system in its early cancellations, and at the introduction of stamps the postmasters were forced to use whatever was at hand. These included many marks which were applied as "pre-stamp" covers, such as "free" or "paid," and rate marks such as 3, 5, 6, etc., which were useful when no stamps were affixed, but meaningless on letters bearing stamps.

U. S.'s Hold on Guantanamo Bay

Under the treaty of May 22, 1903, with Cuba, following the Spanish-American war, the United States leased a site at Guantanamo bay, Cuba, for a naval station at an annual rental of $2,000 paid in advance until 1959.

Games of the Middle Ages

There is an interesting survival of the games played by schoolboys of the Middle ages in the markings cut in stone and wood in the cloisters of several cathedrals in England. Westminster, Canterbury, Norwich and Gloucester, all bear remains on their cloister benches of the squares cut for nine men's morris, fox and geese, and in and out. It is thought that where these markings are was once the place of the school; for in the Middle ages cloisters often formed the school rooms of the day. And it is not unlikely that the masters themselves indulged in these games in their free time.—Montreal Herald.

Title, Man on Horseback, Given Napoleon, Boulanger

The title "Man on Horseback" was applied to Gen. George Ernest Boulanger, a French soldier and politician who lived from 1837 to 1891. A veteran of the Franco-German and other wars, he sought popularity by appearing in public mounted on a black horse. Boulanger was for a time minister of war. At first a demagogue and "jingo" who played to the radicalism of the gallery, he was later subsidized by the monarchists, attacking parliament and favoring militarism, a weakened parliamentary system and a stronger executive. His opponents called his proposals dictatorship and Caesarism. His method of attacking the parliamentary system was to put himself forward as a candidate for deputy in various parts of the country at the same time. After one of these elections, he was impeached, but he fled the country to escape trial and committed suicide in Brussels.

The term is commonly applied to dictators who court the favor of the mob in order to rule them. Napoleon has been called the "Man on Horseback" or "Robespierre on Horseback," in the sense of a ruthless leader to trample the people in order to further his own ends.

Canada Larger Than U. S.; Russia Largest Country

Which is the larger—Canada or the United States of America? The answer is Canada by a small margin! Here is more "easy" geography to keep in mind. By far the biggest country in the world is Russia, which is more than equal, including Siberia, to the United States and Canada together. India is equal in size to France, Spain, Germany, Great Britain, Italy, Bulgaria, Rumania, Hungary, Jugoslavia, Portugal, Czechoslovakia, Austria, Latvia and Albania added together, and you could tuck Belgium, Switzerland and Lithuania into the corners. Do you realize how very small are the British Isles? They cover an area less than either Rumania or Norway, and they are much smaller than either Sweden or Poland. The whole British Isles could be covered twice over by the one American state of Texas and there would be room left for a country as big as Wales.—Montreal Herald.

IDEAL LIFE SOUGHT FOR FORESTRY ARMY

Sports Will Help Keep Up Morale of Workers.

Washington.—Work in the new reforestation camps—and there will be plenty of it—is to be well balanced with play. No one knows better than army officers, old hands at training large bodies of men, the valuable truth of the old adage, "all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy."

Since President Roosevelt ordered the army to take charge of the men while they are in camp, Maj. Gen. Hugh A. Drum, deputy chief of staff, and his aides, have been busy drafting a recreation program for the new army of labor.

Specific hours for play will be set aside and it will not interfere with the schedule of work. Rather, officials believe, it will add tremendously to the efficiency of the workers.

Baseball Heads List.

Baseball will, of course, head the list of sports for the quarter million unemployed city dwellers who are to be given jobs in the healthy outdoors. Each of the camps is to have 200 men in it, under tentative plans. Officials hope to develop a spirit of rivalry between camps located within a reasonable distance of each other to build up keen competition.

Camps will be located near a stream whenever possible, and this will provide another much-loved sport—swimming.

For the long, cool evenings in camp there will be indoor games of all sorts, and movies. Cards will be provided, and there will be checkers, dominoes and the inevitable jig-saw puzzles.

Secretary Dern has had a number of offers from college heads throughout the country, and as a result there may be instituted in the camps educational courses designed to prove highly valuable to the recruit when he leaves the conservation corps and goes back into the life he came from.

Living conditions for the men will be similar to those of the army.

The food will be just as good as army rations. Often it will be better. Forces working in the forests will be able to procure more fresh food than the dough boys.

Personnel will be under army supervision demanding a clean camp, regularity of habits and a high morale. The men will not be expected to maintain a schedule as rigid and tiring as the army demands. Because the army is the only force qualified to carry the burden of personal supervision of the forestry workers, their mode of life will be formulated somewhat along army lines.

Another thing. Neither the army, which is supervising the work camps, nor the forest service, which will supervise the actual work in the woods, wants shirkers.

Free Medical Service.

Medical reserve corps officers will be stationed at the camps. Field medical kits will provide everything necessary for treatment of injuries except those of a major nature. In such cases, arrangements will be worked out to provide speedy removal of all patients to a medical center.

Vacationists who take to the woods when the mercury climbs into the upper brackets will find the 161,000,000 acres of national forest even more pleasant than usual this year.

New forest trails and roads, public camp improvements and a limited amount of tree planting are only a few of the additions to the vacationer's pleasure that President Roosevelt's civilian conservation corps will bring.

In the field of safety from fires there will be new telephone lines strung, new landing fields set out for airplanes, new fire breaks, lookout towers and observatories, and range water development. Also, the reforestation army will tackle the job of insect and tree disease control, and other range and forest work.

State and Commonwealth

In the United States there is actually no difference between a state and a commonwealth, except in name. Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Virginia and Kentucky are called commonwealths because the framers of the constitutions of those states preferred the word "commonwealth," which implies self-government, while the word "state" does not necessarily have such an implication.

Persian Splendors

The beautiful palaces and mosques of the city of Istahan were mostly built by Shah Abas, 1588-1629, and are still in good condition. Recent regulations have opened these magnificent examples of Persian art to visitors, without requiring special permission of the shah. Istahan remains today typical of ancient Persian splendors.

Missouri Man Purchases Rare Documents for $10

Excelsior Springs, Mo.—J. M. Hughes, a furniture dealer, is the owner of three rare documents of American importance, but he is worrying about whether they are genuine or not.

He has a death warrant for a Salem witch which carries the signatures of Cotton Mather, John Winthrop, Indian King Philip, William Phipps and others, a letter written by Abraham Lincoln at Springfield, Ill., in 1853, and a letter from Button Gwinnette relating to state boundaries.

All three papers appear to be genuine, but because of the small amount paid for them it is hard to believe they are authentic. A man entered Hughes' store and sought to borrow $10 on them, stating if he did not return in two weeks Hughes could keep them. The seller has not reappeared.

Should the collection prove genuine, its value is estimated at several thousand dollars. But Button Gwinnette is the rarest autograph of signers of the Declaration of Independence.

Nature's Way

Nature does not vary. The same law that controls the shape of a tree or the physical aspect of animal life determines the moral, mental and spiritual development of the man and the woman. For all of these there is a susceptible age, and what happens during those vital years produces traits and proclivities which no future treatment can wholly eradicate.

Barbary Coast

Barbary is a name applied to an extensive region in North Africa comprising the Mohammedan countries excluding Egypt, which are peopled by the race known as the Berbers. These are Morocco, Algeria, Tunis, Tripoli, the Fezzan and Barca. This Barbary coast includes only four European controlled countries along the Mediterranean from Morocco to Tripoli.

Light From Arcturus

The correct distance of the star Arcturus is 40 light years, or approximately 240,000,000,000,000 miles. A light year is used in astronomy to denote the space traversed in one year by a ray of light, traveling at the rate of over 186,000 miles per second; it is about 63,000 times the distance from the earth to the sun (93,000,000 miles).

Wild Pigeons Extinct

The passenger pigeon, which formerly was found in North America in countless numbers, is now extinct, the last specimen dying in the Cincinnati Zoological gardens in 1914, says Pathfinder Magazine. Continual hunting, and the appropriation of nesting places in the Mississippi valley caused the bird to die out.

Square and Round Chimneys

The bureau of engineering says that while a round chimney is preferable to a square one, both are satisfactory. If a chimney is straight and the air current is strong, smoke is likely to travel straight up. If it meets an obstruction or if there is only a light draft the currents will carry it up spirally.

Sauce for the Goose

By JOHN HART

©, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate. WNU Service

FLORENCE DAVIDSON was one of those persons that practice what they preach. Only her preaching was done through the columns of "The Evening Gazette" under the caption, "Advice to the Lovelorn, by Marion Dixon. Every day, except Sunday, Florence answered questions of young women, and some young men, in regard to love affairs, preceding the replies with an article of general advice.

Only recently these articles written by Florence had been accumulated and published in pamphlet form under the title "Keep Them Guessing."

Florence was a strong advocate of "guessing" in love affairs. She argued that a young man's interest became stimulated when he found himself unable to fathom the depths of his idol's nature.

Because Florence practiced what she preached, Robert Harvey was kept constantly on the anxious seat. She never would admit definitely that she would marry him.

Robert did not realize that he was the constant subject of experiments for Marion Dixon of the "Gazette." Indeed, he was not aware that Florence acted in that capacity on the newspaper, although he knew she held some position there. Yet Robert was experimented upon shamefully in order that the readers of the "Gazette" might profit. But Florence really did love him. Only she felt that she must follow Marion Dixon's advice in order to keep him on the matrimonial eligible list.

One day Robert called for her at the "Gazette" office and escorted her home.

"Shall I see you this evening?" he inquired.

"I think not, Robert. Really, I believe we should not see so much of each other for a while. Besides, I have another engagement."

"He'll call me up in a day or two and beg me to relent," she confidently told herself later that day, "and of course I'll yield to his pleading. It's all in the game."

Florence didn't get her chance to relent, for Robert failed to fulfill her expectations. He did not telephone to her and she received no word from him through the mails.

Then came the climax. Florence went to the theater one evening with her mother, and there she saw Robert with another girl.

At first Florence was angry. What right had Robert to pay attention to another girl after the many protestations of love he had told her? But her anger cooled and anxiety took its place. She was ready to forgive if only Robert would come back.

But Robert made no effort to see Florence. He must be away on business, she decided, but she discovered he was not out of town one evening when she went to a restaurant for dinner and found him dining there with the same girl who had accompanied him to the theater. This time Florence shed tears.

Well, it was all over now. She had lost Robert. And it was her own fault. She wrote "Advice to the Lovelorn" with little heart now, because she was beginning to doubt the soundness of the policies she advocated.

Then, one day, Florence met Robert on the street, and stopped him.

"Why don't you ever come to see me?" she asked him, pocketing her pride.

Robert appeared the same old self.

"I'll see you tonight. That is, of course, if you haven't another engagement," he answered.

Florence had no other engagement and Robert called. He got right to business at the start.

"I love you, Florence, and I want you," he told her, "but I'm tired of never knowing where I am at. If I can't have you all to myself, I won't have you at all."

"You mean—" she said, very sweetly—and meekly.

"Yes. I mean that I am proposing to you again, but for the last time. If you say yes, well and good. It will make me happy. If your answer is no I'll be unhappy, but I'll never bother you again. But if you accept me this time, all this tact and diplomacy stuff of yours has got to stop. How about it?"

Florence was silent for a moment. When she spoke there was a hint of tears in her eyes.

"It suits me, Robert," she told him. "I'll marry you and I'll never keep you guessing. You can depend on me all the time."

When Robert left her that night he was far happier than he ever had been before. He whistled a gay tune as he walked home under stars gleaming in a deep blue sky. He went to his room and sat for a long time gazing at a picture of Florence and smiling. It was a smile of triumph as well as happiness.

Before retiring he opened a drawer of his dresser and brought forth a paper covered book.

"This Marion Dixon had the right dope," he murmured. "Only she forgot to mention that it works both ways. Maybe she didn't know it when she wrote this 'Keep Them Guessing' volume."

Smilin' Charlie Says

"It seems t' me th' louder a man sez 'no' to his wife, th' sooner she's apt t' get what she wants."

Pleasanton Ladies Aid To Give Party

Members of the Pleasanton Ladies' Aid Society discussed plans for a Lawn Party to be held in front of the Presbyterian church Thursday, September 21, at a business meeting held at the church social hall Tuesday evening of last week.

Mrs. W. T. Nilson is general chairman of the party. She is being assisted by members.

An entertaining program is being arranged for the afternoon.

A luncheon will be served at noon. Refreshments will be served during the afternoon.

Booths containing, aprons, fancy work, candy and other odds and ends will be stationed on the lawn.

COUNTRY FIRE CREW SUBDUES CANYON GRASS BLAZE

Rocks plumped onto the highway and traffic dodged last Friday when a grass fire raced up the almost vertical side of Niles Canyon narrows near Stonybrook. Niles firemen rubbed their chins and stated that only mountain goats and County Fire Warden McGlinchney, of Livermore, with his specially equipped crew, could attain a position near the blaze, which reached the top of the ridge and was fighting its way into a stiff breeze. McGlinchney's crew was summoned; surveyed the situation, and clambered toward the ridge, where the individual members, with extinguishers on backs and wet sacks in hand soon had the flames under control.

Interesting to see were the miniature landslides caused when the mounting flames expanded portions of the rocky ledges on the slope. Several tons of rock hurtled down the slope, some of the fragments weighing several hundred pounds.

A guess hazarded as to the start of the blaze was: cigarette tossed out by an occupant of a passing automobile.

MONTGOMERY AND HAYES IN "ANOTHER LANGUAGE," SEPT. 20

"Midnight Mary," a picture highly endorsed by the management, ends its run at the Hayward theater tonight. Richardo Cortez and Loretta Young head the cast. This is a timely drama, gripping in its detail and modern in scope.

Wheeler and Woolsey! What gales of mirth these two madmen have drawn from delighted fans. now they're "Diplomaniacs," a bewildered hodgepodge of laughs. And the girls! On the same bill is Helen Twelvetrees in "Disgraced." And even more—on the Saturday matinee—is chapter 1 of "Eighting with Kit Carson." All this is slated for Friday and Saturday.

On Sunday and Monday is the equally riotous comedy "Mama Loves Papa" with the droll Charles Ruggles and wifish Mary Boland. Hoot Gibson is back in "Fighting Parson." Don't miss this!

Irene Dunn heads the cast in "The Silver Cord," slated for Tuesday night. This is also glassware selection night.

The hit of the week will start a twoday run on Wednesday night —Helen Hayes and Robert Montgomery in "Another Language." The cast, the story and the direction are superb.

The cement fence in front of the grammar school is under construction. It was badly damaged when a car chashed through it.

In 1854 the Centerville Vigilantes formed. In the year that followed four cattle thieves were caught and hung. The roll call of the vigilantes was never found.

BACHELORS BEAT HUSBANDS IN BALL GAME

Amidst many arguments, the Mission San Jose single men defeated the Mission married men seven to five Sunday in a ten-inning game.

Manuel Fontes won the ball game in the tenth inning when he hit a home-run with a man on base. Steinmentz, Soares and Fields starred on the mound for the single men. They allowed nine hits and struck out nine.

"Wild" B. Telles, "Midget" Silveria and "Dub" Boggini pitched for the married men and they allowed eleven hits and struck out thirteen.

The married men could not stop the wild hitting of "Cowboy" Worth, and M. Fontes, and S. Piereria, who allowed four home-runs with Fontes getting two.

The married men proved themselves just as good hitters as the single men, when "Wild Telles and J. Boggini came through with homers. Silveria R. Boggini and Rogers did their share by hitting doubles.

A double play was made from Steinmentz to J. Fontes by the single team.

YOU CAN'T DENY IT, MOTORISTS! THIS NEW KIND OF TIRE IS 3 TIMES SAFER FROM BLOW-OUTS

No extra cost to public for new life-saving invention!

PERHAPS you have been using some other good brand of tire. If it has given you good service you naturally feel loyal to it.

But loyalty to your family and friends comes first. Investigation shows that the chances are better than even you'll have a blow-out some day. And every year thousands are killed or injured when blow-outs throw cars out of control.

New Invention Prevents Cause of Blow-Outs

Would you knowingly take this terrible risk with precious lives, when it can now be avoided at no extra cost?

To prevent just such tragedies Goodrich has built into every new Silvertown Tire the amazing Golden Ply. This life-saving invention resists the terrific heat INSIDE THE TIRE that causes blow-outs. Rubber and fabric don't separate. Thus blisters don't form. Blow-outs are prevented by overcoming their CAUSE.

Yet this new "3 times safer" tire costs not a penny more than any other standard tire! Can you afford to be without them, when your life and others might any day DEPEND on this extra protection?

Come in and let us show you this new kind of tire . . . take advantage of today's still low prices.

ATHLETIC CLUB TO BE REVIVED THIS FALL

Intent on reviving the old Athletic Club in Centerville, Harold DeLeon, assisted by several of the old members, has arranged for semi-monthly meetings to be held in the new gymnasium of the Washington Union High school.

Having not met for two years, the club will assemble again, hoping to resusitate the old championship volley ball team. If successful in getting the boys together, DeLeon plans to enter the team in some volley ball league.

The high school gym is to be used in place of the old city hall, former meeting place, because of the excellent facilities afforded there.

Centerville Druids Will Initiate Members Monday

The Centerville Grove of Druids met Monday night to discuss plans for their part in a huge program to be put on by the Centerville, Pleasanton and Livermore groves at a huge barbecue picnic to be held at Rose's pavilion September 24.

Committee in charge of the Centerville activities is E. Alameda, chairman; A. Francis and Manuel Perry.

Monday night the Centerville grove will have an initiation at Centerville, at which time some twenty-five neophytes will be introduced into the order. The Pleasanton and Livermore groves plan to be on hand for the ceremonies.

Much Activity Slated In Dramatics at High School

The annual student body play of the Washington Union High school has been tentatively set for October 20, according to statements made last week. "The Goose Hangs High" is the chosen vehicle for this season's talent, some of the latter being selected last week in the preliminary tryouts. The production will be under the direction of Miss Godfrey.

As dramatics instructor, Miss Godfrey has many plans for programs this fall, a Christmas pageant slated for December. Previous to the intense preparation for the senior play next spring, various and sundry small skits will be presented at student body meetings.

Native Sons Tell Of Admission Day Parade

J. D. Norris, Tof Silva, M. P. Mathiesen and Max Stevenson were among members of Washington parlor of the Native Sons to attend the Native Sons Admission Day celebration held at Santa Rosa. They report that the parade was immense, taking two hours to pass a given point. It was estimated that more than 15,000 people witnessed the spectacle.

Marriage Disclosed

Mrs. F. O. Bunting received word this week of the marriage of her daughter, Mrs. Evelyn Chandler, to F. Waltenberger, of Rotterdam, Holland. The marriage took place in New York City on September 12, 1933.

The S. P. R. S. I. council card party is slated for September 29 at Parish Hall.

K. C. CANDIDATES TO RECEIVE HIGHER DEGREES SOON

A first degree initiation, for members of the Centerville council of the Knights of Columbus, will be held this evening in the Parish Hall, Centerville. There will be two candidates—Tom Maloney and Manuel Torres.

The degree team of the local council will perform the necessary ceremonies. Members of the team are: Judge Allen G. Norris, John Vasconcellos, Jim Collins and M. W. Lewis.

Last night several members of the Centerville council attended a first degree initiation at the Magellan council, in Oakland. None of those in attendance from Centerville took part in the ceremonies.

On Sunday, September 24, eight members of the Centerville council will be honored with major degrees at the Oakland council. Second and third degrees will be conferred. All east bay councils—Ninth and Tenth districts—will be represented, according to Ernest Pimentel, member of the Centerville group.

Night School, Dramatics Will Draw Local Talent

Under the able supervision of E. Bowman, the new dramatics and public speaking classes at the Washington High School night school is attracting wide notice in Washington township.

Bowman is said to be an excellent instructor in the art of speaking, and exceptionally good as a dramatics teacher. It is said that his classes are rapidly filling up.

It is Bowman's aim to have as many young people as possible, with any interest in dramatics, in his classes. Plays will be produced later in the year.

Dramatics classes meet twice a week, on Mondays and Wednesdays.

Madruga and Rogers to Attend Firemen's Meet

Chief Fred Rogers and Assistant Chief Frank Madruga will attend a meeting at the office of Chief Lutkey, of Oakland, tonight to discuss plans for the forthcoming firemen's convention at Portland. Representatives of the several fire districts in the east bay will be at the meeting tonight, Rogers said.

ANNUAL BAZAAN

The annual bazaar for the benefit of the Holy Ghost church at Centerville will be held October 21. A thorough and entertaining affair is planned by the ladies of the parish.

CORNHUSKERS MEET ROOSEVELT THIS AFTERNOON

Mystery enshrouds the quality of the Washington High school football team, to try its cleats under a new system for the first time this afternoon when Roosevelt High, of Oakland, invades the Centerville turf.

Having scrimmaged or the first time Tuesday, the Cornhuskers have many rough edges to polish off, but as a basically powerful team, they are there. Regli and Agosti have spent a great deal of time drilling the fundamentals into the boys, and this afternoon's contest should see some clean tackling and effective blocking.

From a short observation of the initial scrimmage it seems as if the team will have a powerful over tackle drive, both from straight formation or from a deceptive spinner. Munisse and Rose are fast, cut sharp and hit driving. They'll see action.

The following men should see action this afternoon at some time during the contest: Centers, Louie Manuel and Boyce; Guards, Wilson, Dinsmore, Soit; Tackles, Phippen, Sinclaire; Ends, Medcrios, Dundas and Cesari; Quarters, Brown and Raso.

The game is scheduled to start at 3:30.

CENTERVILLE LIONS FETE HAYWARD CONTINGENT

Shifting their regular meeting to accommodate their guests, the Centerville Lions Club met last night at the Hotel Gregory, for an enjoyable time at the hands of the Hayward Lions Club, visiting group which furnished the entertainment of the evening.

Motion pictures of the activities of the Lions at the convention recently held at St. Louis, and pictures of the World's Fair at Chicago, were shown as a part of the program. The rest consisted of music and talks by various members.

According to Loren Merriott, Lion secretary, a delegation of Oakland Lions, and the district deputy governor were present. The attendance was large.

FIRST MEETING OF COUNTRY CLUB WELL ATTENDED TUESDAY

Ninety Hear Splendid Program: Talks Given By Guests

Ninety members of the Country Club of Washington township met at the Centerville clubhouse Tuesday afternoon for one of the most colorful and entertaining meetings ever held by the local group.

Mrs. Josephine Brown, presiding over the meet, introduced the presidents of 14 clubs, all of whom were guests for the day. Each gave a short talk.

Mrs. Wallace Meracle, county president, gave an engaging talk on the balance in Nature, stressing the lessons that ean be learned from it.

Mrs. Newton Cleaveland, president of the political science club of Berkeley told the assemblage "what it meant to be an American." She emphasized the importance of thought, and the value of women's thinking in the country.

In discussing the government of the United States, Mrs. Cleaveland intimated that the governmental structure has survived intact in a world of change because its tenets and basis approximate the will of God. She stated that the most serious obstacle in the perfect function of the government is the inherent lawlessness of the American people.

The musical program is said to have been superb, Mrs. Leta Gregory Jackson, of San Jose, rendering three numbers and an encore after continued applause. She sang Aria from La Tosca. The Flute and At Dawning. Her encore was Pools of Quiet. The accompanist was excellent members said.

Mrs. E. A. Ellsworth and her co-workers on the luncheon committee received due credit and praise for the delicious luncheon, and for many of the colorful decorations.

The California Nursery company furnished decorative flowering shrubs for the decoration of the porch and hallway.

At the next meeting of the club, to be held on the first Tuesday in October, Miss E. Marie Sandholdt, recently returned from an extended world tour, will tell of various phases of her trip. She will place emphasis on the Orient.

The Dramatics section of the Club, under the direction of Mrs. Barton Webb, met at the club house this morning to lay plans for an active season. They have laid out an ambitious program for the fall activities.

AUNT ELSIE CLUB ELECTS OFFICERS FRIDAY, SEPT. 15th

Meeting last Friday at the Niles Grammar school, the local chapter of the Aunt Elsie Club, under the guidance of Mrs. N. F. Myers, nominated and elected officers for the coming year and laid plans for the season's activities.

Officers, elected after much shouting and arm waving, are: Ilene Wittenmeyer, chief witch; Lorraine Peterson, assistant chief witch; Mae Wittenmeyer, keeper of the scrolls; Betty Denton, sender of messages, and Julienne McDonald, keeper of the treasure chest.

Proving that they had not been idle during the summer vacation, the children submitted more than forty-five poems, paintings and stories, which will be sent in to headquarters in the Tribune building, Oakland.

The new ritual or the chapter is being drawn up by Aunt Elsie herself, at the sugestion of the local guardian. It will add a degree of importance to the future meetings, and the children are sure to enjoy it, according to Mrs. Myers.

Car of Niles Man Burns When Carburetor Ignites

George Lucas, Niles, smelling smoke in his car while driving from Oakland Sunday night, stopped to determine its cause just as flames caught about the carburetor and vacuum tank. Unable to extinguish the blaze, and fearing a major explosion of the main gas tank, Lucas was forced to stand by while his car went up in flames. The damage to the machine, while severe, is not irreparable, according to Lucas. He thinks that a short either in the generator or in the light wires ignited the gas in the carburetor.

CRASH AT MISSION SAN JOSE JAILS VALLEY MAN

A. D. Johnson of Hughson, Stanislaus county, was held in Niles jail Sunday night pending the arrival of necessary bail, after he was taken into custody on a charge of reckless driving, brought by Q. Reznik, of San Francisco, into whose car Johnson is alleged to have crashed near Mission San Jose Sunday afternoon.

According to witnesses of the accident, Johnson was attempting to pass aonther car when his motor failed. Unable to speed up, and unable to drop back in line, Johnson turned to the left, directly in front of the machine in which Reznik and a woman companion were riding. In the resulting crash Reznik and his companion were slightly cut about their faces. They were treated by a local physician.

Hearing of the case is set for September 22, at the Niles courthouse.

Niles Garageman Nearly Run Down While at Work

Clarence Crane, Niles garageman narrowly escaped serious injury in a near accident in front of the Shuckl cannery Saturday afternoon, when an automobile bore down upon him as he was adjsting a brake on another machine that had stalled.

Crane, prostrate under the car, saved himself by seizing the drive shaft and drawing himself completely under the machine.

When questioned as to his apparently erratic driving, the driver of the other machine stated that he was unable to stop in time as the traffic slowed down, and was forced to turn off of the road. His name was not learned. He was not a local man.

FIRST NIGHT MEETING OF NILES CHAMBER SLATED FOR SEPT. 20

Civic Group to Launch Era of Action at Initial Meet

Feeling that a change in routine, plus more time for speakers and discussion will infuse new life into the group, the Niles Chamber of Commerce will meet next Wednesday evening, September 20, for the firse night meeting, thus beginning what may be termed the rennaisance.

The meet will be held in the dining room of the I. O. O. F. building, where there will be ample room for a large attendance. All members are urged to attend, each requested to be responsible for his neighbor's presence.

Attempts are being made to secure John Burnette, San Jose, attorney, as main speaker, it being the desire of the chamber to hear an authorative outline of the NRA. Burnette recently addressed the Washington Township Democratic Club on this subject.

Dinner will be served to the members, either in the form of a buffet arranged by the members, or a more elaborate feed prepared by some philanthropic group of Niles women.

Bill Helm, past master in theatrical production, will have charge of the entertainment, and he promises something unique. A. J. Petsche, in order to lend a savor to the evening is arranging an entertainment of his own, and vows to outdo Helm, who merely laughs.

The night meetings committee, consisting of H. L. Scott, A. J. Petsche, Ray Peterson, Bill Helm, and Dr. E. C. Grau met again last night to complete details for the evening. Although the frequency of the new night meetings has not as yet been concluded upon, members feel that they should be at least a semi-monthly affair. More on this score will be decided after next Wednesday night's meeting.

President F. V. Jones stated that the success of the new venture is entirely in the hands of the members. A solid, serious effort of each individual in the civic group will assure the rebirth of the Niles chamber into an active, interested benefactor of the community.

Plans for a "Ladies' Night," to be made a regular occasional feature will be discussed at the meet.

Supporting the Niles fire department loyally, President Jones said that each member of the chamber should take it upon himself to show his appreciaion and go to the firemen's dance, to be held in the Garden of Allah, Saturday night, September 30. Jones said that men who give freely of their time and efforts for the community safety and well being deserve no end of cooperation and support.

In the absence of W. B. Kirk, who was slated to speak to the chamber Monday on the art of fishing, Harvey Braun filled the breach with a short resume of his trip into the northwest. He also suggested that the chamber communicate with George Wilhelm, county surveyor, for information concerning the start of work on the nursery road.

George Bonde was appointed committeemen for next Monday's meeting.

PEST CONTROL WORK BRINGS ALBANIAN REPRESENTATIVE

Having heard of the advanced methods of mosquito control in Alameda county a short time ago, the Albanian government, evidently confronted with the problem of exterminating the pests within the borders of that country, has sent a paid representative to this county to study the effective proceedure employed here, according to officials in the Mosquito Abatment District.

Realizing that a great part of the success of the district here is due to the research and management of Harold F. Gray, district head, the Albanian visitor is working with him and at the same time studying under Professor Herms, of the University of California, who is one of the foremost authorities on the malaria carrying mosquito, the anopheles. It was with the aid of Professor Herms that Grey first contributed toward the extermination of the pests in California.

The local section of the district, under the supervision of Roland Bendel, has found it necessary to temporarily employ an additional truck and crew to cover the ground effectively in Washington township during what is apparently propitious weather for mosquito breeding. This week the crews are seeking out the breeding places of mosquitos that have been multiplying south of the town of Niles.

BOUND FOR NEW YORK

Harry Green, recently returned from a year's study at Columbia University, New York, will leave tomorrow on his return trip to New York, where he will take a place as a member of the faculty at the Lincoln school. Green plans to travel by train to Chicago, thence by bus to New York.

Leave For Arizona

Mrs. H. Gillis, and her daughter, Patricia, who have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. N. H. Parks for two weeks, left early Wednesday to drive back to their home in Phoenix, Arizona.

Mrs. A. A. Hatch will entertain the Welfare Club Monday afternoon.

Small Fire Routs Out Niles Firemen Saturday

An alarm at about 2:45 p. m. Saturday hurried the Niles fire deparment again into Niles Canyon, where a grass blaze had started near the Clark bridge in a pasture. The blaze was threatening a gum tree grove, where it would have been out of control. Several cows were indangered in the field. None of the people residing in the vicinity knew how it started, but guesed at a careless smoker.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Townsend, Jack Townsend, Mabel Townsend and Miss Evelyn Rose drove to the top of Mt. Diablo Sunday. They tell of a winding road and a scenic view.

Recital Benefit Dance At Mission Sept. 16th

Pupils of the Campos School of Music are sponsoring a dance at the I. D. E. S. pavilion at Mission San Jose, Saturday night, September 16. Jimmy Collon, of the Orpheum circuit, will be master of ceremonies and will entertain between dances.

The dance is being given to secure funds to defray the expense of setting the stage for the Campos School of Music recital to be given in the Washington Union High school auditorium early in October. Planned as an elaborate affair, the recital will incur certain costs, hence the dance.

Crowds are expected, and pupils of the school are working unceasingly toward its success. The Sunny Californians, popular orchestra, will furnish the music. It is rumored that turkeys will be available to some of those who attend that night.

Mrs. Ed. Vargas, was confined to the San Jose Hospital for one day this week after the removal of her tonsils. She was then moved to the home of a friend in San Jose where she is recuperating. She will soon be home. She was treated by Dr. Grimmer.

NRA CODES TO BE ENFORCED AT ONCE IN PLEASANTON

Plans for appointing a policing board for the purpose of seeing that all NRA codes are being properly enforced by the merchants of the City of Pleasanton, was the business of a meeting held at the City Hall recently by the Pleasanton NRA committee.

All merchants and business men of Pleasanton were invited to attend and listened to a good discussion of NRA codes and by-laws.

Mr. Arsenu, of the Oakland Chamber of Commerce, one of the NRA speakers, gave a detailed talk on the NRA. He answered all questions asked by the merchants present regarding the hours, wages and codes of the NRA.

The policing board will be made up of representatives from each business house in Pleasanton with John J. Amaral acting as chairman. Amaral stated that as soon as all business houses have appointed their representatives the board will hold a meeting and will start functioning immediately.

PLEASANTON PATROL OFFICERS ARE APPOINTED

Officers for the Pleasanton Junior Traffic Patrol under the sponsorship of the Pleasanton Junior Chamber of Commerce, were announced last week according to V. Bernard Johnson, principal of the Pleasanton grammar school.

Bill Schmidt was elected captain of the patrol and Arthur Rosa, lieutenant.

The officers were temporarily appointed, the permanency of their positions will depend upon the grades made on their school studies. All members are honorary students and anytime their records fall they are taken from the patrol.

They are stationed at the crossing at Abbey and Main street opposite the Veteran's Memorial hall. They direct the traffic while the grammar school children are crossing the street before school hours, at noon and after school.

The advisory board for the patrol this year is headed by Sam Glassey, president of the Pleasanton Junior Chamber of Commerce; V. Bernard Johnson, principal, and George Barron, of the California state highway patrol.

The patrol has been divided into four squads with a sargeant at the head of each group.

The boys working on the patrol aside from the captain and lieutenant mentioned above are as follows:

Squad No. 1, Jack Nolan, sargeant, John Fracisco and Roy Kruse; Squad No. 2, Bob Schmidt, sargeant, Donald Haas, and Anthony Viada; Squad No. 3, Clide Siggins, sargeant, George Kruse, and Bennie Kruse; Squad No. 4, Paul de Guilio, sargeant, Mario Bertolotti, Stewart Allison, and Mervin Gibson, extra.

Amador Dons' Football Schedule Is Announced

Today (Thursday) the Amador Dons will play their first practice game of the season when they will meet the Roosevelt high gridiron at the Amador field.

The Dons will have four practice games before the league schedule. There are only four games in the league schedule. Hayward Union high school is not in the Southern Alameda County league this year because the enrollment of the school is too large in comparison to the other schools in the league.

The schedule for the Dons is as follows.

Thursday, Sept 14, Roosevelt, at Pleasanton.

Thursday, Sept. 21, Castlemont, at Pleasanton.

Thursday, Sept. 28, San Leandro at Pleasanton.

Friday, October 6 Tracy, at Tracy.

League Games

The league games are as follows:

Friday, October 20, Livermore, at Pleasanton.

Friday, October 27, Centerville, at Centerville.

Friday, November 3, Emeryville, at Emeryville.

Friday, November 10, California School for the Deaf, at Pleasanton.

AMADOR HIGH HAS STUDENT BODY MEETING

Plans for a Freshmen's reception to be held soon at the Amador Valley high school were discussed at a student body meeting held last Wednesday.

The meeting was presided over by Arnold Abrott, president. This was the first meeting this semester.

A committee was appointed by the president to convene with the faculty advisory committee to make the program of events to be held that evening. The advisory committee is headed by George Patterson and consists of the Misses Dorothy Leonard and Eleanor Perry, and Mrs. Anita Smith.

It was also announced at that meeting that no class organization is to make any business transactions with any business concern without the approval of the finance committee.

Miss Dorothy Leonard is chairman of the finance committee and every student business transaction should have her signature. The school nor the principal will be responsible for any bills contracted by the school students unless they have Miss Leonard's O. K.

PLEASANTON LADY HAS BRIDGE CLUB

Mrs. Hugo Radbruch of Pleasanton entertained a number of women at a bridge luncheon at her home last Tuesday.

Those winning honors in bridge were Mrs. Sam Huddleston and Miss Lillie Kiefer.

Mrs. Radbruch's guests were Mrs. Frank Coffin, Mrs. Clay Elworthy, Mrs. Sam Huddleston, and Miss Lillie Kiefer, of Pleasanton; and Mrs. Dan Huddleston, and Mrs. George Adams, of Livermore.

The next meeting of the club will be held at the home of Mrs. George Adams September 19.

NIGHT SCHOOL CLASSES RESUMED AT AMADOR

Night school classes at the Amador Valley high school were resumed at meetings to be held next week at the high school according to information received from the high faculty this week.

Monday evening at eight o'clock all those interested in singing met with the Choral class in the music room in the main building. This class was under the direction of Harry Tripp, musical instructor.

Mr. Tripp stated that it is not essential for those joining the class to be able to read music. He went on to say that if necessary he would conduct a class in music reading a few minutes each meeting night.

The Public Speaking Forum under the direction of E. O. McCormick, principal, held its first meeting Monday evening at seven thirty.

Everyone interested in this line has been requested to attend. Current topic of interest to the members will be the topics to be discussed by this group. It also gives one the present day requirements for speaking. The clues of the public speaking class depend upon the use which the individual wishes to make of them. The information and practice received within this class is considered most valuable to those who might not feel that they would not care to engage in public speech.

Sewing and art classes under the direction of Mrs. Anita Smith held its first meeting at the high school Wednesday evening at seven thirty. Everyone interested in sewing, making lamp shades, art, crayon work and leather work have been asked to attend.

The meeting Wednesday night was for the purpose of getting the class organized and to decide upon the definite night for the class to meet.

A commercial business class was conducted on Wednesday evening by Miss Dorothy Leonard. Courses in typing, bookkeeping and shorthand will be conducted. Beginners in shorthand and typing are urged to attend. This class will meet at seven thirty in the commercial room of the high school, located up stairs.

Barry Chapel in Capital Among Earliest Churches

St. Mary's Catholic church, which is historically known as Barry chapel because it was the gift of James Barry, was for many years regarded as the pioneer Catholic church in Washington, until an old tablet from the original church was found during the course of excavation for the foundation of St. Dominic's church, on Sixth street southwest, when a conclusion to the contrary was proven. However, it was reverently preserved by being imbedded in the rear wall of one of the buildings attached to St. Dominic's, where today one may read this inscription:

"In the name of the blessed and undivided Trinity. Amen. The first stone of a small Roman Catholic church is laid in the city of Washington in the year of our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ, 1806, and dedicated to the Blessed Virgin Mary under the title and name of St. Mary's. Gloria in Excelsis Deo. Erected by and at the charge of James Barry."

James Barry—as his name indicates—was an Irishman, as were a great many of the first residents of the Capital city—James Hoban, who designed and twice built the White House, being one of the most important. Indeed, as early as 1802, there were enough "sons of Hibernia" there to form a St. Patrick's day parade, which they did, wearing shamrocks in their hats.—Washington Star.

Mount Vernon Maintained by Ladies' Association

Mount Vernon is maintained by the Mount Vernon Ladies' Association of the Union. This organization was formed in 1853 by Miss Ann Pamela Cunningham, a South Carolina woman, for the purpose of purchasing the Mount Vernon estate as a permanent national shrine, after it had been offered for sale by John Augustine Washington. Miss Cunningham became regent, and representatives of twelve other states became vice regents.

The association was incorporated in 1856 and set itself to raise the purchase price of $200,000 by popular subscription. The estate became the property of the association in 1860. A further fund was raised to provide for the permanent care of the buildings and grounds.

Since then the association has acquired portions of the estate which had been previously sold; ruined buildings have been restored, and numerous articles of furniture and other relics associated with the Washingtons have been returned to Mount Vernon.

Inundation of the Nile

The inundation of the Nile is a phenomenon which occurs every year, and lasts from about June 15 to September 17. The river then gradually subsides, leaving a rich alluvial deposit for six miles on each side of the stream. With the development of irrigation and the construction of great dams Egyptian farmers are freed to some extent of their former absolute dependence upon the behavior of the river. In other days an excessive or deficient rise in the river was enough to cause the failure of the crops in the Nile's flood plain, and that crop meant the difference between prosperity and famine in Egypt.

Muskrats Store Air

The Saginaw river muskrats are remarkably intelligent animals, according to a naturalist who told of their antics at a meeting of the Saginaw Rotary club, says the Detroit News. One of the most unbelievable feats of these animals is the way in which they provide themselves with air while swimming under the ice in winter. The muskrats will take a deep breath before diving under the ice on the river's surface. They will then emit part of this air to form a bubble under the ice and after swimming around a while return to this bubble when they feel the need for more air.

World's First Bar

The first bar in history was invented by a Florentine. This claim is made by a Florentine scholar after a study of ancient MSS. In the year 1600, he says, Luca Mainardi established a little shop opposite the cathedral at which customers could get lemonade and other drinks, including coffee, standing at a counter. After Mainardi's death there was no other bar in Florence till the vogue for "American bars" began during the present century.

Failing Sight

Ninety-five persons out of every hundred who have reached the age of sixty years have defective vision. Should we accept this as a natural result of growing old or as an artificial result of unnecessary abuse of eyesight? At forty years of age about 50 out of each 100 persons have measured eye defects. At the age of twenty years about 25 per cent are so afflicted.

Wheat Products

Spaghetti, macaroni, vermicelli, etc., are prepared from the hard semi-translucent varieties of wheat which are largely cultivated in the south of Europe, Algeria and other warm regions and distinguished by the Italians as "grano duro" or "grapo da semolino." These wheats are rich in gluten and other nitrogenous compounds, and their preparations are more easily preserved than the soft or tender wheats of the more northern regions.

Sunday Inauguration Days

Three times in our history as a nation March 4 has fallen on Sunday—1821, 1849 and 1877—and only one of the Presidents to be inaugurated in those years took the oath that day, Hayes in 1877. He had a regular inauguration, however, the next day. The President of the senate, D. O. Atchison, of Missouri, was President one day, March 4, 1849. There was no President on that day in 1821.

Palm Trees

Palms represent one of the oldest types of vegetation, according to geological epochs. They are distinguished from other trees by their straight, unbranched stems or trunks with a canopy of leaves or fronds at the top. They grow from the center of the trunk out through the top while woody trees make their growth in the cambion layer just under the outer bark.

Fox' Bad Name Undeserved

The reputation of the fox as a predatory marauder and a barnyard thief has been greatly exaggerated, according to a two-year study made in Michigan. The conclusions reached indicate that except for an occasional rabbit and a still more occasional bird or egg, reynard's bad name as a robber and killer has been rather undeserved.—New York Times.

Younger Sons Brainier

Statistics seem to prove that the younger sons of families are better equipped with brains than their elder brothers. Among the famous younger brothers are Julius Caesar, Abraham Lincoln, Napoleon, Shakespeare, Nelson, George Bernard Shaw, Charles Darwin, George Washington, and Marshal Foch.—Answers Magazine.

Most Tragic Migration

The most tragic migration in history started in Russia in 1771 when one-half million Kalmucks, oppressed beyond endurance, packed their tents, burned their villages and started on a 3,000-mile trek to China, during which 350,000 of them died from cold, hunger, disease and attacks by enemies.—Collier's Weekly.

Further Use of X-Rays

It was during the World war that X-rays were first applied in detecting hidden flaws in castings. The method proved so successful that it is specified in inspecting armor-plate, rudder-posts, shells, and any heavy metallic masses on the soundness of which industrial efficiency and life itself depend.

TAX CASE BECOMES COMEDY OF ERRORS

Taxpayer Runs Afoul of the French Bureaucracy.

Paris.—This is a sad story of a taxpayer caught in the intricate net of the French bureaucracy. Besides the taxpayer it involves the sum of five cents and a tax collector poor at arithmetic.

M. Lesueur is a Paris dealer in hides and leather. On May 8, 1832, he paid his taxes, including a tax of 79 francs, about $3, which the government imposes for each apprentice hired by business houses. Having duly paid all asked of him, M. Lesueur thought he was through for 1932, but he was soon to learn he had only begun.

In January of this year M. Lesueur's firm was notified that the 79 franc tax had been imposed in error and would be refunded, and the refund was made at once. Then another official got hold of M. Lesueur's tax bill, and decided that the 79 francs should have been paid after all, so he invited M. Lesueur to pay it again, which he did.

But early this month tax official number three entered the scene. Discovering that 79 francs imposed in May, 1932, had been paid this year, he fined M. Lesueur for being late with his taxes. Having suffered a dozen annoyances because of his good intentions, M. Lesueur decided to undergo one more, and he resignedly agreed to pay the fine.

For reasons best known to the tax collector, the fine was calculated at 10 per cent of 14 francs, 40 centimes, but at this point the arithmetic entered. Instead of demanding 1 franc 14 centimes, the tax collector asked for 15 centimes, or 1 per cent, and that was paid.

Then the error was discovered, and the tax officials have informed M. Lesueur that he owes 1 franc 29 centimes more. Now the latter feels that he has had more than enough, and he refuses to pay. Seizure of his establishment has been ordered as a consequence, though the sum is 5 cents. He says he will let the bailiff put all the padlocks he wishes on his property, and let them take it to court.

Wyoming Indians Given Buffalo Meat for Food

Yellowstone Park, Wyo.—From near extinction to such numbers that Indians and relief agencies have been donated surplus animals for their meat supply, is the history of the Yellowstone park buffalo herd, now totaling more than 1,000 animals.

In 1902 official figures listed but 1,676 buffalo in the world. Emerson Hough, after a winter inspection trip, said there were but 22 of the animals in the park. That year funds were obtained for establishment of a protected herd, and by 1926 there were 764 buffalo in the park.

Careful feeding, strict enforcement of protective rules, and even vaccinations were required to develop the herd. In 1912, 1919, and 1922 a blood poisoning disease threatened to wipe out the herd, but vaccinations counteracted the epidemic, and since that time no serious outbreaks have taken place.

The herd now has reached such security that the park authorities each year cull out the infirm, weak, and undersized animals, slaughter them, and give the meat to Indians, or relief agencies.

3,000 Trees to Set Out in Washington District

Washington. — Thirty miles of streets in the district will be improved by the planting of 3,000 trees under current appropriations, Clifford Lanham, superintendent of trees and parking, announced after completing plans for the spring program.

This program, however, will fall somewhat short of actual maintenance of Washington's tree population, for during the past year the department has had to remove 3,590 trees for various reasons.

"I'M SORRY," said the young man, barring Dorothy's progress across the little foot-bridge that spanned the roadside brook, "but I'm here to stay. You see, I'm related to Charlie Parkins."

"Well, so'm I. I mean, so'm I going to stay, and so'm I related."

Dorothy sat down on the rocky bank. She looked across the bridge to the Parkins shack. Paradise—and she couldn't get to it.

The young man looked at Dorothy. Lovely girl, she seemed, but he'd be darned if she was going to put anything over on him.

"You see," he repeated, "Charlie Parkins knew I was coming up today. And he warned me against intruders."

"This place practically belongs to me today," Dorothy said. "And I think you're the intruder And I'd be really grateful to you if you'd please go away."

"I'm staying." Bob Stowe had become stubborn.

"I'm stubborn, too. And I think you're awfully rude. There's special reason why I—I've got to stay."

A suggestion of tears in the violet eyes, now.

But—"I suppose you could stop here and rest a bit if you're tired," he said grudgingly. "You seem to have brought your lunch. I'll take some crackers and cheese and go off by myself."

Dorothy watched him out of sight between the trees. Then she sighed, picked up her two baskets, and went over to the little shack.

Two hours later she heard the crackle of twigs that announced the return of the young man.

"Well," he said, "you still here?" She did not answer him.

"You'll have to go, you know. I'm camping here for a week."

"I'm going." The girl rose from her seat. "I'll go right away. Do you mind if I leave my lunch? I—don't want it."

Bob Stowe looked at the lunch Dorothy pointed to. Spread on a card table—boned chicken, jelly, a salad, sandwiches, a vacuum bottle of coffee. Two plates, untouched.

"But it's three o'clock—and you've not eaten. Of course, I don't mind your having that lunch. But—" He looked closely at the girl—pale and tired, she seemed. "You know, I'm sorry I was rude. I mean—lots of people picnic here. Charlie's always having trouble with 'em. That's why I told you to get out. But—" he looked with embarrassed interest at the tempting lunch—"I wish you'd stay and finish up. I'll make it right with Charlie."

"I'm sorry." She sobbed. "But it's just the last straw. I'm just no good at all. First I come out here and bring this lunch, and wait all afternoon for Charlie—and he doesn't turn up. And then—you don't believe me."

"Poor girl," said Bob Stowe. "Tell me what it's all about."

"Well—give me your handkerchief, will you? Mine's sopping. You see, I knew Charlie pretty well. He and I had a date for this afternoon to come out here. Then we had a quarrel. He said I wasn't practical. But I am. I made this lunch myself! And he didn't come."

"Don't worry," said Bob. "Charlie's a good sort. Maybe I can help straighten things out. You care a lot for him, don't you?"

"Oh, yes!"

"Well—let's—I mean, you'd better eat something."

"Yes — let's." The girl smiled through her tears.

Half an hour later, over cigarettes, Bob pulled the conversation back to their absent host. After all, Charlie deserved some sort of a break.

"See here," he said, "we've got to do something about Charlie. I mean, it isn't quite fair to him. No matter how much of an idiot he's been. I'll explain. And then—"

The girl laughed softly.

"But, you see," she said, "Charlie's my brother! And he thinks I don't know anything. I wanted to prove I could get a good lunch, but he didn't come. And he forgot to tell me about you."

The air cleared for Bob. "Charlie's a brute," he said. "He told me to come up here for a week's camping. And he said to tell any picknickers I was his brother, or something. But he forgot to tell me about you."

"But I know about you now," said Bob. "And will you come up every day for lunch while I'm here?" He was helping her pack her things back in her car.

"Yes!" She smiled. "Yes, I'll come—every day."

He resolutely took his eyes away from her and let her start down the rocky, winding road.

"Tomorrow," he called as her car turned from sight around a curve. She couldn't hear him, of course. But his shout made tomorrow seem nearer. Well, this would be a great vacation. Then Bob Stowe laughed. "And I came for solitude," he thought. "Bet it's a put-up game on Charlie's part, not turning up this afternoon, and sending—Dorothy—up. He said I'd find the place like a tonic."

He looked down the empty road again. "Till tomorrow," he shouted.

Bounty Jumpers

A bounty jumper in Civil war days referred to a man who enlisted in the army when bounties were being paid for enlistments. After receiving the reward, he deserted. Often, the same man would collect several bounties under different names.

The bear, although frequently guilty of fearful ravages upon the flocks upon which the desert nomads depend for livelihood, is never harmed because the Navajos believe that bears are the reincarnated spirits of good Indians.

Hiawatha

Hiawatha is a name and a title of a chieftainship hereditary in the Tortoise clan of the Mohawk tribe; it is the second on the roll of federal chieftainships of the Iroquois Confederation. The first known person to bear the name was a noted reformer, statesman, legislator and magician, justly celebrated as one of the founders of the League of the Iroquois, the Confederation of Five Nations. Tradition makes him a prophet also. He probably flourished about 1570 A. D.

What It Takes to Be Chief

In some parts of Africa, before the domination of the white man, if a strong able man could get hold of a large drum, summon large numbers therewith to dances and hunts, prove himself capable of settling knotty points of law and in forcing compliance with his decisions, he could soon set up as a big chief and gather a goodly band of sub-chiefs and headmen.

California Asks U. S. to Pay Civil War Debt

Sacramento, Calif. — Uncle Sam again has been asked to pay California $6,462,433 for money expended during the Civil war.

For years California has asked payment based on a bond issue in 1865 which paid volunteer soldiers enlisted here.

Rolland A. Vandegrift, state director of finance, recently renewed the claim.

Some of the bonds are still outstanding and drawing interest.

Double Beds Still Popular as Ever

San Francisco.—Despite the trend of modern times and independent ideas, double beds have retained their popularity among housewives, a department store survey revealed.

More than 5,000 San Francisco women were questioned on the matter and 45 per cent of them were in favor of the old-fashioned bed, while 37 per cent preferred twin beds.

The remaining 28 per cent couldn't make up their minds.

Horsehair in Water

A horsehair placed in water does not change into anything else but a horsehair, even though it does curve and twist in the water. There are various species of hairworms, which somewhat resemble in appearance long horsehairs, but develop from eggs like other worms.

St. Bernard Not Big Eater

Contrary to the general belief, the St. Bernard is not a heavy eater. It gets along very well on the same amount of food fed dogs half its size, and the expense attendant to housing and rearing a St. Bernard is no greater than with the average run of dogs.

Case-Hardening

The bureau of standards says that case-hardening is a process by which carbon is caused to penetrate the article, giving rise to an outside portion high in carbon known as the case, the carbon content decreasing gradually toward the center.

Ways of Monkeys Copied by Both Men and Women

When you feel an overpowering impulse to pick a loose thread off some one else's coat, even if he is a total stranger to you, you needn't be ashamed of it, unconventional though the action may be. For you are only acknowledging your ancestors, muses a writer in the Montreal Herald. Grooming, the activity we see in the monkey cage when its inhabitants go carefully over each other's fur, picking out thorns or parasites, smoothing down hair, and in general making its neighbor pretty, is a basic action pattern in all the primates from the lower monkey-like mammals up to man himself.

The grooming habit is inborn and hereditary, rather than something which one monkey (or man) learns from another. The case is cited of a young chimpanzee kept isolated from all its kind from infancy onward, which nevertheless developed the grooming tendency.

In man, the grooming tendency has the most complex expressions. The activities of barber, hair-dresser, nurse, physician, surgeon, fundament in the grooming behavior of the chimpanzee.

Longest, Shortest Days Determined by Solstices

In places using standard time the longest day may be either June 21 or June 22. In each year preceding leap year the longest day is June 22, while in other years it is June 21. And the shortest day in the year may be either December 21 or December 22. It is December 22 in all years except leap years.

The longest and shortest days are determined by the summer and winter solstices, the exact time being determined by mathematical calculation. The solstices are the times of the year when the sun is at its greatest declination either north or south. The summer solstice is the time at which the sun reaches its farthest point in its swing northward from the equator, and which accordingly marks the longest day in the year. The year consists of approximately 364¼ days, and the solstices fluctuate because of the fractional day of each year; this is adjusted by the leap years.

The difference in length, however, from the days immediately preceding and following the longest and shortest days of the year is only a fraction of a minute.

Welsh Children Musical

Wales is said to be a land of song. Even the people in the streets going to and from work will sing—not snatches of songs with wrong notes, but melodies in tune, sung by beautiful voices, says the Montreal Herald. In Wales music is born in the heart and breaks from it on all occasions. It is more common than not for a man, whose work takes up his whole day from early in the morning till about six in the evening, to hurry home, to have a wash and a meal, and to be off again for singing practice for the sheer pleasure of it. Little children have actually been discovered there at play—one with an improvised conductor's baton — sometimes singing such things as Bach's Passion music.

Daily Warning for Miners

The workmen at a South Wales colliery are assembled daily before they descend into the diggings to listen to some words of warning with the hope of preventing accidents to themselves and fellow workmen. The proprietors claim that this relieves them of a certain amount of responsibility, but it is doubtful, for this same message being repeated day after day soon fails to make any impression on the men. It is an old story and they pay little attention to it. All the various forms of accidents common to mine workers are enumerated and the men are told to avoid certain performances which are attended by risk. The list starts off with the injunction to leave all matches at the surface.

J&F'S WALLOP REDS IN 11TH INNING FOR CHAMPIONSHIP

Ten to Eight Final Score As Newark Comes From Behind

With no outs, no one on base, and the game all but over in the ninth inning, the Newark J and F's displayed one of the most thrilling ninth inning rallies ever to be seen in the east bay, to beat the Irvington Reds in the final and deciding game of the championship series, played at Newark Sunday.

Trailing at the short end of a 8 to 5 score, Newark tied the score in the ninth, then rose in the eleventh to score the winning tally. Final result; Newark 10, Irvington 8.

The Newark team at large, handled every chance so well that they may well be credited as being the world's championship outfit, without any undue flattery by any admirer of the great American sport.

Excellent hitting of Dondero, Ornellas, De Valle, and pinch hitting by Calderia, all of the winning team, stands out as the highlight of the march to victory. Robinson on the short patch, Dondero at the third sack and the Venerable Veteran Shine Silva at first, fielded to perfection, each handling his position like a champion. The pitching of Cooper, Newark twirler, will long be remembered by the Irvington Reds. So will Wilson's fast fire ball. Wilson relieved Cooper for the last four innings and held the Reds scoreless for the remainder of the contest.

Rose of the Reds is credited for pounding out two home runs. Joe Blacow collected three hits out of five times at bat.

Both teams displayed good sportsmanship, and the fans should congratulate both aggregations, and foster this fine spirit.

Manager Joe Pashote, of the Newark club, is to be congratulated on his fine managerial work throughout the season, and for the smooth way in which he made his boys work for him.

Joe Jason, sponsor of the victorious team was nearly prostrated with joy over the outcome, but his genuine congratulations to Irvington Manager Red Blacow did little to despel that official's well-concealed gloom. Red Blacow is one of the best sportsmen that this township has ever known, and it is the hope of the Newark team that Red's team will again clash with them in a Championship go.

Oakland Boys Sent Home When Itinerant "Tells"

An experienced hobo, who didn't want to see two young boys make the same mistake he had made many years ago, was instrumental in returning Leonard Hipple and Donald Gillette, two 14 year old Oakland boys, to their homes Wednesday.

The experienced hobo, after talking with the two runaways in the Western Pacific freight yards, notified Deputy Sheriff Hugo Radbruch. The lads were returned to their homes, from which they had been missing for some time.

H. Kibby, shop instructor at the Washington Union High school, severly injured his hand Wednesday of last week when he caught it in one of the shop lathes. His place at the school is temporarily being filled by Richard White.

Farrington Dairy—this morning's milk, nothing put in, nothing taken out.—Jy13tfc.

Mrs. Lawrence Bunting is among those who are taking an active interest in the recently formed public speaking and dramatics class at the Washington Union High School.
